Coming Snowstorms to Close Down Bulgaria

The whole territory of Bulgaria will be covered by snow in the coming days, the Bulgarian Academy of Science's meteorologist on duty told DeltaNews Friday.

Cloud formations will approach the country as soon as this late afternoon and snowfall is expected to stop two days later - on Sunday. Thermometers will show temperatures of +1°C (33.8°F) during the days' warmest periods, staying as low as -9°C(16°F).

The conditions for tourism in the mountains are bad, Mountain Rescue Service people told DeltaNews. Tracks are covered by snow and fogs reduce visibility.

Meanwhile the country's major skiing resorts of Pamporovo, Borovetz and Bansko report that conditions for sports are good enough.
